As noted, the rate or discount offered by Verizon will be determined based on a number of considerations, including purchase commitments and other rate-impacting terms, such as:

Purchase Commitments

- A commitment to purchase a specified dollar value of services (in total and for specified services) under the contract, for a specified period of time, after a specified start date.
- Payment of an early termination charge or underutilization charge if a purchase commitment is not satisfied.
- Minimum previous purchase levels, specified by volume or dollar amount.
- Minimum usage levels, specified by percentage, volume or dollar amount, with specified charges if minimum levels are not satisfied.
- Exclusivity thresholds, specifying that Customer will use Verizon for a specified percent of particular services not already committed to other providers, and will move such committed services to Verizon when those commitments expire, with specified charges if the thresholds are not satisfied.

Other Rate-Impacting Terms

- Credits of various types may be provided, to be applied as specified, such as:
 - Contract signing credit or other one-time credit
 - Credits applied to specified accounts, for designated uses only
 - Credits to be paid on condition of Customer reaching a specified spending level
 - Recurring credits to be applied only for specified services, up to a specified amount

- Waivers of certain charges, either on a one-time or recurring basis, for specified services, such as:
 - One-time installation charge waiver
 - Recurring miscellaneous charges
- Payment arrangements, such as:
 - Payment interval
 - Late payment charge percentage
- Promotions, as available
- Provisions providing relief from purchase commitments, early termination charges, or underutilization charges under specified circumstances.
